The Lab Is Where It's At!

Ryan Wellness Center’s Education and Resource Lab offers office services and computer training in a comfortable and welcoming environment...

Nestled back in the southeast corner of the Ryan Wellness Center’s first floor sits the RWC Education and Resource Lab (“The Lab”). Pop in any weekday morning and you’re likely to see a number of folks intently gazing into computer screens or working on projects at one of the Lab’s work tables. That’s because The Lab is a well-equipped resource center available for use by any and all clients of Mental Health Partners.

At the Lab, you can:

* Use a computer to check e-mail, surf the Internet, or look for an apartment or job
* Receive individualized tutoring in essential computer skills, including using e-mail, the Internet, and Microsoft Office (Word, Excel, Publisher, Outlook, PowerPoint)
* Make copies, send faxes, print or scan documents (we accept donations for these services)
* Get help using your cell phone, laptop, or other mobile device
* Train in office, receptionist, graphic design, and video production skills
* Sign up for and help choose RWC Social Club events
* Get support in working toward your goals

At the Lab, we do our utmost to make each and every guest feel welcome and comfortable. When you arrive, one of our trainees will cordially greet you at our front reception counter and, if you are new to the Lab, you will be given a quick orientation to the facility. Assistance using a computer is almost always available or, if more extensive computer tutoring is needed, we have daily drop-in hours in addition to tutoring by appointment.

The Lab is a vibrant, energetic, positive place where everybody seems to help and encourage each other. We invite you to stop by (no referral necessary), check out The Lab, and experience how we can help you achieve your hopes and dreams...

The Lab is open Monday thru Friday 8:30 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. See you soon!

Self-Sabotage
By Lisa and Corrine

Self-Sabotage is self-defeating behavior that creates problems and interfere with long term goals. Some examples include alcoholism, overeating, smoking, tech addiction, procrastination, or cutting. While these behaviors help us cope short term, ultimately they may have life destructing consequences. Almost everyone I asked acknowledged having issues with self-sabotage.

My collegiate coworker at a reception job was meeting a fellow for the first time at work. He came and seemed nice. Shortly into her meeting she told him to take off his cap. He said, “no”. Later on she told him to do it again. Finally she insisted upon it and he just left. Her comment to me was “I always sabotage myself”.

My own example of self-sabotage came to me as a surprise. I was talking to a bookstore owner in hopes it would lead to a job. I told him how much I liked his shop and how unique the architecture was. Suddenly I started insulting him tremendously. I went into shock and walked away. I reflected on why I might have done that, some possible reasons for self-sabotage are boredom, desire for sympathy, indecisiveness, or distaste for change. Fear of success can be equated with loss of control. A person can feel more in control with the usual failure than with a sudden success.

With so much at risk it seems important to stop sabotaging ourselves. Some ways that I find helpful are:

* Being aware of when you start to self-sabotage
* Pointing out to yourself why you are trying a particular goal
* Imagining the outcome if you succeed or if you fail

It seems overwhelming to stop these bad habits at first, because they help us cope short term, but there is hope. Keep trying even if you fail at first - it can be hard to change old negative behaviors. The point is progress not perfection, as they say!

Poetry Place by Katie F.

While we mellow ‘n meditate
Really relaxed, come to ruminante
When we heed thee need & mediate
Entire Earth with ONE WILL motivate

May we say ‘n share ‘hi’ on byways
Sometimes shed some tears ‘byes days’
Folks finding how solace & soul stays
All along pathways for souls whom prays

When we, riding ‘long real roads which swerve
Remembering ‘tis wise ways which “give with curve”
In relating to reflections to serve
Nifty, nice ‘n neato knowing takes nerve

To see with clarity: conscience attends
How Times change while one’s soulship bends
All adults who are aware make amends
As above . . . Goodness Gracious Allah attend
