

Crisis Information for Crisis tab on COVID-19 Landing Page

Risks and Risk Factors:

(Icon) You need medical attention, but don't want to go to the emergency room or call 911 because you might be exposed to the coronavirus.

(Icon) You need to leave an abusive situation at home, but there are stay-at-home orders in place in our community and throughout our state.

(Icon) An abused or neglected child may be isolated: teachers, counselors & day care providers aren't seeing kids, so incidents of child abuse or neglect might not be reported.

(Icon) Care for an older or disabled adult might be reduced or withdrawn altogether, leaving these individuals more vulnerable to abuse or neglect.

What You Can Do:

(Callout) Call 911 if you or someone at home is in immediate danger. Seek help now if you or someone at home needs medical attention or a safe place to stay.

- Medical and EMS personnel, emergency rooms and urgent care providers are available and modifying their operations and practices to limit potential exposure to the virus.

If you or someone you know does not feel safe:

If you need a safe place to stay, counseling or support. Local domestic violence shelters are operating, and crisis lines continue to offer confidential 24-hour support. Chat online or email if you can't safely call from home:
